U.S. Army Leaves China By May 1, Staff Heads Told

SHANGHAI, April 1 (AP)—De-activation of the U. S. Army in the China Theater, May 1, was announced today by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer upon instructions from the joint chiefs of staff in Washington.

This will leave three to four thousand U. S. Army personnel in China to work on the U. S. advisory group headed by Gen. George C. Marshall.

British Insist:

Reds Must Remove Equipment In Iran

NEW YORK, April 1 (U.P.)—British officials insisted today that any settlement of the Soviet-Iranian dispute must guarantee not only unconditional withdrawal of Russian troops from Iran but also removal of all Soviet military equipment.

Fear that the Soviets might leave such equipment behind them in the hands of "Russian sympathizers" or autonomist leaders was expressed as:

1. Soviet Russia underscored her confidence in the basic ideals of the United Nations by becoming the first big power to pay in full her $1,723,000 contribution to UNO's working fund.

2. President Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes scheduled conferences in Washington to review the UNO crisis over Iran and decide upon American policy if the Soviet Union ignores the Security Council's appeal for troop removal assurances.

3. Security Council members started to "sweat out" the last 48 hours before Wednesday's 11 A.M. EST deadline for a reply to their identical notes to Russia and Iran for more information about the status of negotiations.

Soviet Russia's payment in full of her contribution to the $25,000,000 UNO working capital fund eased some of the general tension created by the Council's hectic first week in the new world. But there was no indication that the move meant the Soviets were weakening any on their adamant stand on the Iranian problem.

Strikes

Coal Tieup By 400,000 Hits Nation

New Threat To Reconversion

By UNITED PRESS

A new strike wave developed today with a walkout in the nation's soft coal mines and strikes which crippled transportation in two major industrial cities.

The coal strike began at midnight last night when the vanguard of 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers, AFL, laid down their tools. The walkout threatened the reconversion program just as it was recovering from major set-backs in the automotive, electrical and steel industries.

Meanwhile, public transportation in Detroit and Akron, O., was paralyzed when transportation workers struck in wage disputes.

The three new walkouts increased the number of workers idle in labor disputes across the country from 400,000 to more than 805,000. Other major developments:

1. Threatened spoilage of one-

From bearings taken, he said, the quake was about 3,950 miles northwest of here. He said it was impossible to determine whether it occurred on land or in the ocean.

Populists Win In Incomplete Greek Returns

ATHENS, April 1 (U.P.) — The Royal Populist party won a limited victory in Sunday's Greek election, incomplete returns indicated today, but failed to report an overwhelming demand for the return of King George of the Helenes.

Populist leaders, who advocated a quick plebescite for the king's return to the throne, conceded that returns failed to fulfill their expectations of a major victory.

Returns indicated that the Populists polled about twice the vote of any other participating party, but the total Populist strength was roughly equal to the combined voting power of the Liberal party and National Political Union. Informed quarters believed that a Rightist-Center coalition would result, and a plebescite on King George would be delayed until 1948.

6,300 Vote On Union At Raytheon

'Yes' Or 'No' On AFL Affiliation

Under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board, some 6,300 employees of Raytheon Mfg. Co. Waltham and Newton plants will cast their ballots in a "yes" or "no" election tomorrow, with the CIO withdrawn from the voting.

Both the Waltham and Newton factories, as well as other smaller units of the company in the Greater Boston area, are concerned in the election which will determine whether or not the majority wishes all employees to be affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, American Federation of Labor.

Prior to a recent announcement of the withdrawal of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, CIO, the question on the ballot was whether or not the employees wished either of the two unions.

The election comes as a culmination of a long effort to organize the concern. A. F. of L. organizers claim that a consent election could have been held much earlier but for charges of unfair labor practices which the CIO had filed against the company.

Blind Veteran Buys 'Couple Of Acres' In Abington, Wants To Settle Down

By JOSEPH NOLAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ABINGTON, April 1 (U.P.) — Came in hand and hat brim tipped self-consciously over his dark glasses, war veteran Ernie Goy came down from Boston today to "look over" his new farm.

"It's nothing fancy," he admitted, "just a couple of acres, but I've got lots of ideas for it. A fellow does plenty of thinking and dreaming in an Army hospital and I guess he does even more if he can't see. This is my dream. And Rosalie and I, we're going to make a go of it, too."

Ernie was talking about Miss Rosalie Cohen, a blind social worker from New York City, who taught him Braille while he was at Valley Forge General Hospital. They will be married in June.

They'll start out with about 500 chickens and a little fruit, but they hope eventually to develop a regular truck gardening business. Although he never has worked on a farm himself, Ernie took a course in poultry raising while he was at the Old Farms Convalescent Home in Avon, Conn. He's 27, husky — six feet tall and 185 pounds — and he's willing to work.

Besides, Ernie won't have to do the chores alone.

His father, mother, sister and brother will give up their East Boston home and move into the rambling, 14-room Colonial farmhouse here with him. Ernie's dad, a shipfitter at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s East Boston yard, will help out on the farm in his spare time, and his brother will be the general handyman.

Even before a Nazi mine blew up in his face while he was fighting with Gen. Patton's army outside Paris, Ernie had wanted to be a farmer and have a little place of his own. Afterward in the hospital, he wanted it more desperately than ever, but he dared not hope.

Then he met Rosalie. She had lost her sight during childhood but had gone through college and had no trouble holding a job. Week after weary week she begged and pleaded with him not to give up his plans for the farm. Finally, she helped him arrange for a G. I. loan to finance his cherished idea.

"When you own a farm," Ernie smiled, "you've got to have plenty of kids around to help you out. Rosalie and I want a big family — well, at least two kids."

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 1 (NEA)—Do you need an apartment? A new car? New suit? Shirts? Nylons? Steak? Butter? Well, they're all here — and they're not expensive. We didn't believe it either until we read these ads from New York newspapers.

About the housing situation: "New York is definitely a boom town for a room seeker with rooms to suit every individual need and purse." Real estate agents plead "Visit ... We'll drive you around until you find the apartm... ...ou want ... months' concession."

(In case you've forgotten what concession means you get two months rent-free if you'll take the place.)

Shopping for an apartment we find "Beautiful three and a half room sublet; regular rental, $90; sacrifice $65; 17 months lease." Too high. Then how about "Four rooms for $40. Southern exposure, refrigeration, elevator, switchboard." Or, "Five rooms, three bedrooms, $67.50. C...sion. Or, "New elevator apartments, cross ventilation, 2½ or 3 rooms, $55; inducements, immediate rental."

Hotel rooms? Plenty of them with "sun-drenched rooms, nothing between you and the distant skyline, $12 weekly . . . spacious, cheerful, comfortbale furnished rooms with complete service for permanent guests." For $6.50 weekly you could have "large room, suitable two, newly decorated, phone."

BARGAINS IN CARS

Need a new car? Here's a cross-section of the bargains: "Go for a thrill-a-minute drive in a powerful torpedo style coupe, packed with costly car features —$695. . . . Special springtime blues and greens with matching body and upholstery combinations. . . . Come take the wheel, get the thrill of the Miracle Ride —Make it your car today. . . . It costs mighty little to own this high-powered four-door sedan—only $780 delivered to your door."

What about suits? "Rugged tweeds for young men . . . we are fully stocked with the kind of clothes they want to wear. Soft rich tweeds as loud or conservative as they like, $19.95. . . . Two pants suit, $25. . . . Spring topcoats, coverts, gabardines, chevlots and tweeds in plain colors and pleasing patterns, $22.50. . . .

See our splendid selection." One store qualifies its lush assortment with "we won't let you wear it unless it fits."

Shoes are no problem. "We have bluchers, wing tips, and moccasin styles in the rich glowing tone of fine cavalry boots and Sam Browne belts. Come in today and get a pair in time for Easter. Our shoe experts will fit you correctly, $8.95." And another store has a "wide selection of shoes with that hand-rubbed, custom-made look, $3.99."

Low on shirts? "Striped shirts, one dollar, also white broadcloth. . . . Full cut, roomy pajamas, $1. . . . Colorful ties, 3 for $1—stock up now."

Nylons? "Cobweb sheer nylons at $1.50, sorry, no more than six pairs to a customer . . . silk stockings—six weights, every size and color, 71 cents to $1.08."

Easter shopping is a cinch with "three piece furred spring suits (feel the flattery of fluffy Canadian wolf dyed to blend with pastels)," $22 . . . print rayon crepe jacket dresses with full length sheer wool coats, $15 . . . huge assortment of handbags in all leathers, $2.99 . . . fine spring dress fabrics, 48 cents a yard."

Does this sound like an April Fool prank? Well, it isn't. We just happened to be reading the papers of April 1, 1941.

Help Get More Soaps, BRING IN USED FATS!

THIS country is short of industrial fats, mighty short

The supply is so low that the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap; how much for other peacetime goods. The shortage would be even worse without the wonderful help American housewives are giving by turning in used fats.

Keep saving to tide us over this emergency. It will help you get more soaps and other products you want so much.

OKAY, UNCLE SAM.. IF SAVING USED FATS HELPS MAKE MORE SOAPS COUNT ME IN!
BRING USED FATS TO ME JUST AS SOON AS YOU HAVE A CANFUL..

Woman's Club Committee Plans For Food Sale

The Waltham Woman's Club Ways and Means Committee, of which Mrs. Harold M. Hook is chairman, met wit the co-chairman, Mrs. James Connors, at her home, 226 Lowell street, Friday afternoon, with a good representation of members present.

Plans for the food sale, next Friday afternoon, at the regular club meeting were made and it is announced that each member of the club will be solicited according to annual custom. There will also be a sale table of good used books. All merchandise money is due this month at the Friday meeting. The candy sale project was discussed and already has proved its success as has the sale of everyday cards.

The committee plan a get-together at the Abner Wheeler House, Framingham, for their final meeting on Friday, May 10. Mrs. Arthur O. Wellcome and Mrs. Bernard Schwartz are co-chairman of arrangements for the luncheon.

The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Hook and members.

Waltham Boy Scouts

Troop 48

The weekly meeting of Troop 48 was held at the First Parish Unitarian Church. Colorbearers for the night were Scout Morton Weinstein and Scout Paul Drapkin.

After the opening exercises, Scoutmaster Bob Schilds suggested that everyone sit around and informally discuss future plans of the troop.

One of the main topics of discussion was the condition of the Scout room. Mr. Schilds suggested that we clean the room good and then paint it. This was unanimously agreed upon.

After that Mr. Schilds told the troop of a day hike. Scouts participating in the hike are: E. Rouffe, P. Drapkin, W. Wright, M. Weinstein, A. Hoffing, and M. Drapkin. The scouts were instructed to meet at Stone's Dairy at 10 A. M. Saturday morning. After the hike was agreed and settled, Mr. Schilds gave us a little lecture on different knots and their uses, sea foods, and other subjects.

The troop then lined up and recited the closing exercises. The meeting ended at 9 P. M.

Respectfully submitted,
M. Drapkin, Scribe

Properly Done

The recent public hearing conducted by the Board of Appeals on the matter of temporary housing for veterans in the Lyman Field area reflected much credit on the Board itself and the community generally. Orderly and dignified throughout, it was markedly different from some of the riotous conclaves developing elsewhere as the result of bad leadership.

Here was a case of conflict between immediate need and the belief that property values were to be harmed by retarding future residential development. If there had been any question as to resentment against having the veterans as neighbors, it was made conspicuously absent by the obvious sincerity of Ellison Park objectors in presenting their side.

Afterward, the objectors expressed appreciation that they had obtained fair treatment in all respects.

There is an object lesson here which shouldn't be ignored. Waltham veterans of World War II learned that they can get what they desire and deserve through the normal processes of civic life without recourse to emotion or pressure. Indeed, they get the best possible return by safeguarding the civic rights for which they themselves fought.

Before our veterans at all times, we feel, should be the knowledge that their rights and the rights of non-veterans weigh equally on the scales. Otherwise community balance is in dire jeopardy. To the credit of our veterans it must be said that they recognize this. They and their leaders are making no mistakes in that regard.

There are right and wrong ways to cope with the readjustments made necessary by wartime dislocation of so many lives. In Waltham, things are apparently being done properly.

Equal Treatment Proper

It appears both fair and sensible to wipe out whatever distinction has existed between Newton High School's graduates from the classical or commercial courses and Trade School graduates. All have been students of one Senior High School taking different specialties, yet Trade graduates were forced to accept a certificate rather than a degree.

Bearing in mind that English and history are both required Trade School subjects in addition to vocational training, there seems no reason to expect other than equal treatment. On the same basis, a Trade School student should be entitled to participate in varsity sports along with his contemporaries in classical and commercial courses.

The action, placing particular emphasis on the diploma's value in future life, reflects credit upon the School Department.

The Dispossessed

By what are called civilized standards, Bikini Atoll wasn't much of a place to set up housekeeping. It was shy on topsoil and altitude, and there was always the possibility of a tidal wave sweeping inhabitants and dwellings into sea.

But most Bikinians probably would echo the sentiment of the elderly and diffident resident of the Ritz-Carlton as they entered the lobby, "It isn't much, but I call it home." The natives were used to the place. They tolerated its vagaries and appreciated its comforts.

Now they are gone, bag and baggage. We have been looking at the pictures taken just before their departure. The people appeared confused and unhappy, from King Juda on down to the breechclouted infants.

And as we looked at them, we had the uncomfortable feeling that their expression could become typical of the atomic age, unless the world's leaders acquire, quickly and permanently, more good sense than any world leaders have shown before.

For the Bikinians are the first people to be uprooted and dispossessed by the atomic bomb. They were lucky, of course. They didn't see the bomb coming, but those who did were kind enough to come and explain the situation carefully, then take them by the hand and lead them away to safety.

The rest of the world will not be so fortunate, unless both war and the atomic bomb are outlawed through agreements of mutual security and good will. If war should ever threaten again, there would be no advance warning for the people of Boston, Detroit, Calcutta, Vladivostok, or wherever. The Bikinians' uneasy expression—the knit brows and apprehensive eyes—would become a sort of universal mask.

The earth's billions would cast about them in cold desperation for a place of safety. First the dwellers in the likely target cities, then everyone. And there would be no place to go.

It is significant that these early victims of the atomic age lived on that handy and hardy symbol of escapism, a South Sea island. On such an isle, palm-fringed, sun-warmed, and sea-girdled, where fevered effort and frantic competition were outlawed, people used to dream of "getting away from it all."

But in the atomic age safety may be an eventual impossibility. There is only one escape—in the hearts and minds of the political and military leaders who make the decisions and guide the destinies of their fellow creatures in this alleged age of the intelligent, emancipated, and individualistic man.

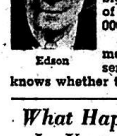
Home, Sweet Prefab Home

WASHINGTON, April 1—(NEA)—Housing expediter Wilson W. Wyatt made a two-day plea for his emergency program before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee after the House got through knocking the foundations out from under it. But how much reconstruction the Senate can do is a bit uncertain.



Edson

One of Wyatt's key points is a provision for guarantees to the manufacturers of prefabricated houses. It's a new industry, bucking all sorts of obstacles, and housing people in Wyatt's executive end of the government feel that the builders need all the encouragement they can get.

There are now 33 manufacturers of prefabs in business, and this is their big opportunity to survive or perish. Wyatt estimates the present capacity of the industry at 100,000 units a year, but his new program calls for 250,000 this year and 600,000 next.

The industry could easily be expanded under wartime production methods to the point where new prefabricated houses would roll off the assembly lines like peanuts out of a slot machine. The catch is that nobody knows whether the public will buy them.

Populas taste is a funny thing. All the logical arguments in the world can be presented on the advantages of living in a streamlined, dustproof, mothproof, 20th Century efficiency domicile with built-in bath and garbage disposal. But if it looks like a squashed pile of something Junior created, blindfolded, with his blocks, it just isn't the conventional white clapboard, red brick, or chicken wire and plaster California bungalow with green shutters that people are used to living in.

Round houses still don't have corners for grandpappy to sit in or for standing the broom in and no place for corner cupboards. And it's still impossible to buy carpets shaped like a slab of pie, or concave pictures to hang on the inside of the outside walls. Maybe that's why they say the industry needs protecting.

If these prefabs catch on in rural areas, however, watch for a revolution in the U. S. Christmas calendar art which illustrates scenes to go with "Over the river and through the wood, to grandmother's dwelling we go." The horse may know the way to carry the sleigh, but look for him to rear back and run away if the old homestead is converted into something that looks like an enlarged incubator. Maybe they've got something there, though, if the prospective buyer is interested in raising a family.

But, seriously, the need for all the emphasis on prefabs is that there simply aren't going to be enough standard building materials to make possible the construction of 2,700,000 conventional-type houses in the next two years. That's why Wyatt is leaning on 850,000 prefabs—to keep that many families in out of the rain and out of the hair of relatives they might otherwise have to double up with.

Senators listening to Wyatt's program didn't seem to be too well sold. Senator Robert A. Taft thinks 150,000 prefabs is all the market will absorb. Senator Homer Capehart, the big radio man from Indiana, says he would go along with granting the prefab makers RFC loans for factories and machinery, but he's not so sure about the wisdom of having the government guarantee them a market. If the government does that, Capehart said in summing up his opposition, "I'm in the wrong business."

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, acting chairman in the absence of the ill Senator Wagner, didn't stop to think how "My old Kentucky prefabricated home" would sound if set to music. He turned to Capehart quickly. "Well," he said, "you could build 'em a radio set for each house and make up for all your other losses."

APRIL

"Hurrah, for the month of April!
For its wind and its rain, Hurray!
For the storms we get in April
Will bring up flowers in May.

I like it's blustery weather,
The burning of leaves just brings
The thought that the days soon coming
Will be filled with sings of Spring.

The crocus have reached their heads upward
To feel the warm spring sun
The bushes are blossomed with fragrance
Now I'm sure spring has begun.

The snow has finally vanished
The mud and the slush have dried
The air—so crisp—has banished
The times my patience was tried
By furnace, and snow drifts and ashes
And icy paths and snow.
I truly love this April

That a husband and wife should be in accord upon an issue provided a humorous touch helping to ease the tension last week as hearing was being held on the petition of zoning restrictions to enable emergency housing to be installed at the easterly end of Lyman's Field.

Atty. Francis R. Hines, as spokesman for Ellison Park property owners, had stated the case against permitting the variance from Residence A zoning requirements for the multiple apartment units.

When Board of Appeals Chairman George A. Kelley asked for others to rise and state their position in opposition to the petition, Mrs. Jeannette M. Hines was among them. She identified herself as the wife of the previous speaker and Chairman Kelley, quick to sense the touch of humor in the situation, solemnly observed: "And I presume you're in complete agreement with Mr. Hines?"

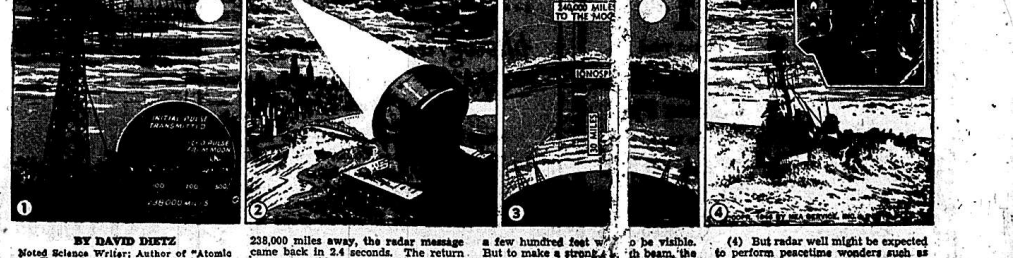
ADVENTURES IN SPACE: The Story of Radar

No. 1: Reaching For The Moon



BY DAVID DIETZ

Noted Science Writer; Author of "Atomic Energy in the Coming Era," Etc.

(Written for NEA Service)

(1) This is the story of a miracle called Radar. . . . This is the story behind the story of that dramatic, breathless moment on the wind-blown night of Jan. 10, 1946, when one of man's wildest dreams came true: He received a message from the moon! . . . That was when a radar beam was sent to the moon from the U. S. Army Air Corps Station at Belmar, N. J., and returned to earth. Traveling 186,000 miles a second (the speed of light) to the moon, 238,000 miles away, the radar message came back in 2.4 seconds. The return message sounded like a low hum and made a wavy white line on the black record sheet of the oscilliograph.

(2) Even before the present age of radar and atomic energy, scientists had speculated on sending a beam of light to the moon. Theoretically a mighty searchlight could cast upon the moon a bright spot which would be seen by the most powerful telescopes. (Telescopes now bring this dead, mountainous satellite of our earth within a visual distance of about 30 miles.) The spot of light on the moon would have to be a few hundred feet w But to make a strong searchlight unfortunate be several miles across.

(4) But radar well might be expected to perform peacetime wonders such as making contact with the moon. For radar's wartime miracles were hardly less startling. Using radar, warships sailing in pitch darkness or fog hit enemy vessels many miles away, squarely amidships. The firing was directed by radar whose image showed the enemy vessel in clear outline. Likewise radar spotted enemy planes or shore installations great distances away. Thus radar helped to win the war for the United Nations.

City's Share To Be $8,250

The resurfacing of Commonwealth avenue, which was interrupted by war conditions, will be completed this year, if a recommendation to be made to the Newton Board of Aldermen this evening by Mayor Paul M. Goddard is approved.

The project is to be done under the provisions of Chapter 90, whereby the cost is shared by the city, county and state, and the work will be done over nearly a mile of highway, extending from the Rowe street bridge in Auburndale to the Weston bridge. The city's estimated share of the cost is $8,250.

The resurfacing of Commonwealth avenue was started before the war and the work began at Lake street. The project was carried out on the "installment plan," one section of the avenue being resurfaced each year until the work reached the Rowe street bridge just before the war. All the work in the past also was done under the provisions of Chapter 90, with financial assistance from the state and Middlesex County.

U. S. Official Says Soviets Leaving Iran

TEHERAN, April 1 (U.P.)—Russian troops are starting to evacuate Tabriz, capital of Aberbaijan province and main Red Army headquarters in Iran, an official American source said today.

The American informant said the Soviet forces are making "ostentatious preparations" to pull out of Tabriz.

The London Daily Herald reported from Tabriz that Prince Mozaffar Firouz, government spokesman, confirmed that the Russians were "moving out" of Tabriz.

Earlier reports from Tabriz indicated that the Russians were leaving behind an autonomous Azerbaijan army equipped with tanks, as well as guns taken from the Iranian army during the recent uprising.

A non-Iranian who recently arrived from Tabriz stated that many Azerbaijan soldiers were seen in Russian uniforms.

The American report of troop movements in Tabriz came while Premier Ahmad Ghavam and his cabinet were drafting a statement for the UNO Security Council, answering the world organization's questions about the state of Soviet-Iranian negotiations.

Blaze Proves Petition On Dump Factual

Close upon the filing of a petition by more than three score residents of the section, asking for abatement of the fire nuisance at the Pine street dump in West Newton, a blaze broke out at the dump Saturday afternoon that required five hours' work on the part of the Fire Department to extinguish.

The firemen also coped with numerous brush fires during the weekend.

The petition for abatement of the dump nuisance will be forwarded to the Board of Aldermen by the mayor this evening. The name of Florence V. Catino headed the signatures on the petition.

Alexander Brown of 349 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, was proud of his car, and well he might be—for it was brand new. And how many people are able to sport a new car these days?

Then along came a mean thief—perhaps motivated by jealousy—and took away some of the newness. He stole all four shiny chromium hub caps from the machine while it was parked in the owner's yard Saturday night.

Injuries Delay Newton Man's Army Release

Back injuries received while taking an officer refresher course at Fort Belvoir, Va., are delaying the release from service of First Lt. Gregory G. Candis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Candis of 226 Commonwealth avenue, Newton.

Lt. Candis, who was at home this week-end on a pass, is being held at the Lovell General Hospital at Fort Devens for examination. He expects his discharge to come through in one or two weeks, but is undecided whether he will accept it or re-enlist.

He sprained his back in 1944 when the outfit he was with was assigned to construct a Bailey bridge, one which is put up in sections of approximately 650 pounds each. Lt. Candis said six men are required to move each panel, and he hurt his back while lifting his portion of the panel.

He was a junior at Northeastern University at the time of his enlistment in the Army in 1942. He was assigned to the Air Corps and attended airplane mechanics school at Keesler Field, Miss. In March of 1943 he went to officer candidate school at Camp Davis, N. C., and upon graduation was assigned to the 819th Anti-Aircraft Artillery, Automatic Weapons Battalion. He was stationed in the states for two years, part of which time he was with the 270th Engineers of the 70th Infantry Division at Camp Atatf, Ore., where he received engineer training preparatory to departing for overseas in March of 1945.

During his service overseas he was at replacement depots in Belgium and in Worms, Germany, and was assigned to the 369th Engineer Combat Battalion of the Seventh Army Engineers building railroad bridges northeast of Stuttgart, Germany. In May of 1945 his outfit crossed the Austrian border and was engaged in opening up rail lines for communications. When the war ended and until he sailed for the States on March 12, 1946, he was in charge of the water purification supply for his company.

Lt. Candis was married in December of 1944 to Miss Angelica Roupas of Syracuse, N. Y., who was with a WAC division stationed at Camp Stuart, Ga. He has two brothers in the service, Capt. Dean J., a surgeon, stationed in Hawaii at the present time with the 219th Engineers, and John G., who served three and one-half years as a Navy fire controlman. John, who has 14 battle stars, has been discharged from the Navy. He was aboard the U. S. S. Santa Fe which took part in 60 operations in the Pacific-Asiatic area, including the battles of Kiska, Marshall Islands, Gilbert, Carolines, Guam, Tinian, Saipan, Bougainville, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, Philippines, New Guinea and the Jap mainland.

Teachers' Return From War Accounts For $23,000 In Cost

The return of teachers who served in the armed forces was responsible for $23,000 of the increase in the salary budget of the Newton School Department this year. The salary account rose from $1,127,000 last year to $1,[illegible]

The returning veterans were granted the increases that they would have received in the normal course of their employment, including step-rate increases to which they were entitled to get annually. Most of the teachers who left to serve in the armed forces have returned to their teaching duties. The increase in cost is due to the fact that the law requires that veterans who return to their teaching posts must receive all increases and benefits that accrued during their absence.

An increase of $34,000 in the teachers' salary account was due to the steprate increases for teachers and $2,900 for the appointment of two new teachers to relieve the situation in "overloaded" classes in elementary schools.

An added appropriation of $350 to provide increased service in teaching of children confined to their homes, including invalids and cripples.

The purchase of new typewriters and business machines is contemplated with funds from the furniture and equipment account, which rose from $22,907 expended last year to $28,000 appropriated last year.

5 Persons Unaware Their House Ablaze

Five persons were unaware that their house at 71 High street, Newton Upper Falls, was on fire yesterday afternoon until a neighbor burst into the house and told them of the blaze.

They are [illegible] in the home of John F. Batten, who with his wife and three children were informed that the house was burning by the neighbor, who had seen smoke issuing from the attic.

The fire Department was notified and Engines 3, 6, and 7 and Ladder 2 were sent to the scene at 5:[illegible] P. M. The blaze was found to have started in a mattress in a bedroom on the third floor. The firemen, under the direction of Chief John L. Keating, quickly extinguished the fire, which attributed the blaze to "smoking in bed."

Because of the city's larger population, Newton most probably will be in Class B and will be able to choose players from only two schools . . . The Junior Legion lads already have filed application for permits to use the Waltham Athletic Field Tuesday and Thursday nights and every other Sunday . . . St. Mary's High and St. Charles High also are seeking Athletic Field permits — and the Waltham-Newton Twilight League is definitely interested . . . This matter of allowing teams, other than Waltham High, to use the Athletic Field will be thrashed out at this week's High School A. A. meeting . . . Waltham High's decision to renew varsity golf is a step in the right direction and we're still hoping something will be done this spring about resuming track, even if the time is getting short . . . Nate Coleman, former Holy Cross footballer and baseballer, works out now and then with his pal, Pete Cote, as Pete pilots St. Mary's High in its daily practice sessions at Bicycle Park . . . And, while we're on the subject of the park, it appears fitting to echo the sentiment expressed by Brother Peter, the St. Mary's athletic director, who speaks highly of its condition . . . Charlie Butler, who played first base for Newton High back in 1932, has worked out with this year's Orange squad several times, may play some ball this season . . . Roy Grubaugh is out of the Marines and can be a big help to some Newton Twi League ball club . . . Today's announcement by Johnny Janse that he is giving up the idea of running a club this year because of failure to get uniforms, may send some of our more dilatory managers scurrying to the sporting goods stores — as we have warned on earlier occasions, they are hard to get . . . Tie games in basketball are rare, but Newton had one a few days ago when the Weeks Junior High and Bigelow Junior High clubs were stalemated, 43 to 43, after two overtime periods . . . Wendell Thornton is going to coach the Newton Legion baseball team, and Wendell, Jr., aged 8, will wear a uniform and will be bat boy . . . Newton Motor Sales of Newtonville will furnish the uniforms . . .

Maguire To Cut Eagles To 40

The Boston College baseball team wound up its first week of practice with Coach Freddie Maguire announcing that he will cut his squad of 80 down to half that number in today's session.

The opening game for the Eagles is slated for the end of April at Amherst, the start of a 20-game schedule.

The groundskeepers at the Heights have been busy for the past week preparing the diamond for use for the first time since the spring of 1942.

Coach Leary To Complete Issue Of Uniforms Today

Alumni Practice Game Canceled, Adverse Weather

Arrangements for a "home-and-away" diamond series with Lexington High were completed over the weekend and Waltham High will make its home debut, Thursday, Apuril 11, at the Athletic Field against the Minutemen.

The Watch Cityians will open their 1946 season against Middlesex School of Concord a day earlier, Wednesday, April 10. The return game with Lexington will be played April 25.

Jack Leary expected to have complete issuance of uniforms this afternoon at the Athletic Field House. He already has out lined his tentative varsity squad, but today should mark the final reduction of his diamond corps.

To take a brief glance at the Crimson squad as it stands now, there are five members of the pitching staff, veterans Norman Roy and Fran Anderson, Don Keith, Johnny Bent, and Don Hill. Catchers are Irving Haynes and Dick Bartlett, with Fran Harte, Malcom Wetherbee, Tony Zaia, Al Scafidi, Charlie Koulopolous, John Hansbury, and Bob Damoiseau vieing for the other infield spots.

With Anderson and Roy available to handle a garden assignment when they're not laboring on the mound, there should be a torrid scrap for the other outfield jobs between Eddie Bengstrom, Ken Cormier, John Sweeney, Harold Bomengen, and Bob Parish.

Waltham had a practice game listed with the Alumni last Saturday morning, but Leary called it off because of the cold weather.

Closed Stance Aids DiMaggio Hitting Punch

(Special to the News-Tribune)

A change in batting stance, more closed than before, is proving a helpful move for Dom DiMaggio, the great little centerfielder of the Red Sox. Always spread out in the batter's box, prior to his entry into the Navy, Dom now stands with his feet more closely together and is hitting to all fields instead of pulling to left. His balance is better and he's getting more power behind his drives. In Havana, Dom laced out two triples in the two-game series in addition to a brace of singles. Although he played very little hard ball during his service in Australia and the Philippines, Dom appears to have lost none of his pre-war ability.

How does Dom do such a great job of fielding, particularly on ground balls, one might ask. The answer is that when batting practice is being held, Dom doesn't hang around in the outfield waiting for fly balls. He comes in and plays shortstop and third. He watches Pesky and Doerr scoop up sizzling grass cutters and then follows suit. That's the reason he has earned the reputation of playing the outfield like a shortstop. Dom doesn't wait for a ground ball to come to him. He charges it like an infielder. And woe to the guy who thinks he can go from first to third on a hit to short centerfield. That rifle-like arm, typical of all the DiMaggio's —will cut him down by a proverbial mile.

Joe Dobson, who won seven and lost 11 in 1943, his last year in organized ball before going into the Army, is the best looking pitcher in the Sox camp thus far this year. The big righthander, who, in the opinion of experts, should win 25 games this year with the stuff he has, says he won't disappoint anyone because he IS going to win 25.

Joe is so glad to be out of the Army and back in baseball that he is going to miss no opportunities to stay in Sox regalia. When Joe Cronin asked him if he wanted to throw three innings in an intra-squad game, his answer was a sprint, not a walk, to the ballpen. Despite the fact that he had been in camp only three days, after travelling some 10,000 miles in a month to become a civilian, Joe fairly exploded the ball in the faces of his teammates.

There wasn't a hit made off his delivery and the Sox regulars, who had a start of several days on him, said that he looked in mid-season form. In Havana, Manager Joe Cronin started him against the Washington Senators. Joe handcuffed the Griffmen and, although the Sox lost the game, Joe was out of there before the damaging runs went across the plate.

Mosher Calls Crimson Golfers

Coach Lionel Mosher will assemble candidates for the Waltham High golf team tomorrow afternoon at the Senior High School, Room 212, and get preparations underway for the 1946 campaign.

Waltham is having a golf team for the first time since 1941 and intends to compete in the Greater Boston League if it is re-organized.

Newton Centre Rangers Drill, 14 Turn Out

The Newton Centre Rangers baseball team held its first practice of the season yesterday at the Weeks Junior High school field with 14 candidates reporting to Manager Henry Lane.

Among those reporting to the team, which, incidentally, is faced with uniform difficulties and will probably play in football jerseys, were Francis Cronin, c; John Fitzpatrick, 3b; David Nangle, 1b; Bob Murphy, ss; Bob Manning, 2b; Ken McDonald, cf; Jack Skehan, rf; Richard Murphy, lf; Jack Alvord, 1b; and outfielders Peter Skehan, John Murray, Jack Carroll, and John Higgins. Lane is the only pitcher with the team to date.

Waltham Watch Baseballers Hold Batting Session

With only a handful of players making an appearance because of the adverse weather, the Waltham Watch baseball team held a brief batting session Saturday afternoon at Bicycle Park.

The Watch nine, entered in the newly-formed Waltham-Newton Twilight League, is managed by Leo Shaughnessy. Among those attending Saturday's workout were Will Connelly, Willy Perrilli, Schools, Ed Whitney, Roy Leaf, and Dusty Rhodes.

Ty Laforest Gets Louisville Option

Ty LaForest, a product of the Waltham schools, who came to the Boston Red Sox from Louisville in the middle of last season, has been farmed out in an option to Louisville of the American Association, the Red Sox management announced today. Two others were also released, Don Lang and Fred Walters, outright to Louisville.

Fred Marcell Watch 1 Pin League Champ

Monopolizing most of the individual honors, Freddie Marcell reigns as high average champion once again in the Waltham Watch Factory No. 1 Bowling League with an average of 106.31, it is revealed today with a final release of league statistics by Secretary Chet Surrett.

Marcell also was credited with the top single of the season, a string of 174, and his 331 aggregate compiled three weeks ago stands as the best in that department. Chet (Kid) Sawin was second with a 103.56 average and Lou Nottebart has a mark of 102.12.

Casing clinched the league championship on the final night of action by taking three points from Machine B last Wednesday. Casing had a total of 81 points and inspection was a single digit behind. An all-time record was written into Watch annals a fortnight ago when Machine B chalked up a 1622 to shatter the high-three team total previously set by Repair A in 1539.

Watch No. 1 will hold its annual banquet next Saturday evening at the Marlboro Country Club. The averages:

Newton Softball League's Managers Meet Tonight

At least eight teams are expected to be on hand tonight at the first organizational meeting of the Newton Softball League to be conducted by Director John Mahue of the Newton Recreational Department at the Centre Playground building at 8 o'clock.

The fact that most of last years league was made of men working in war plants of one kind another led the Newton director to believe there would be a slackening of interest in softball this season, but he has received word from over eight of the clubs already that they plan to enter this season's play.

Victory A. C., last year's champion, is expected to be on hand, as well as the Sherman Paper, West Newton, Raytheon, and Ulcam.

A welcomer to the league will be the Gamewell Electric of Upper Falls who informed Mr. Donahue they were interested.

The Smith team, awaiting an election of officers tomorrow, may have a representative at tonight's meeting, but they have indicated they would play, this year.

The U. S. Engineers, hard hit for ball players, have indicated they could not be able to enter the league, but unofficial sources list them as a definite possibility.

Today's session will be held for the purpose of organizing the league and discussing the rules as regards eligible players, schedules and officials. It is the first of several meetings Mr. Donahue will call before the official opening of the season.

Marineau Heads N. E. Entries In National Amateur

Featherweight Ernie Martineau, awarded the George V. Brown trophy as the outstanding fighter of the New England champions, will be no stranger to the tournament boxing when he steps into the ring for the National amateur championships to be held at the Boston Garden, April 8, 9, and 10.

Marineau, recently discharged from the U. S. Navy, was runner-up in the 126-pound title in the Navy championships held in Hawaii in 1944.

The Nationals, under the direction of Boston's Billy Volk, will offer the fans three lively nights of competition. At least eight champions of AAU throughout the country will be sending teams to the—California, Portland, Oregon, and Hawaii teams promi-nent in the running.

The local team will have Frank Collins, Roxbury, in the 112's; Mickey Maguire, Roxbury, in the 118's; Tony Arau, Providence, R. I., in the 135's; Billy Daley, Somerville, in the 147's; Billy Gear, Dorchester in the 160's; Gene McIntyre, Roxbury, in the 175's; and heavyweight Ken Jason, Cohasset.

Teen-Agers Battling For Hoop Crowns

The Waltham Recreational Department's Teen-age Basketball championships are at stake tonight, as winners of both the North Side League and the South Side League clash at the Waltham High gym.

In the Junior Division game, Ragged Regiment, North Side champion, tackles the South Side titlist, the Ramblers. The other half of the program has the Intermediates slugging it out with the North Side flag-winner, Lakeview A. A., opposing the Healey Club of the South Side.

Ragged Regiment won the Junior Division race by toppling the Bombardiers in a playoff game last week, while Lakeview swept both halves of the Intermediates Division. South Side hostilities saw the Ramblers down the Red Falcons for the Junior Division crown as the Healey Club turned back the Jacko's Five in a playoff for the Intermediate title.

Tonight's double-header will start at 7:00 o'clock and there will be no charge for admission.

Waban Eagles Hold Initial 1946 Session

Over 20 ballplayers were on hand when Manager Paul Condon called together the Waban Eagles for the first time this season yesterday afternoon at the Waban playground for a two-hour session.

A practice game which the substitutes won, 10 to 4, followed the brief batting and fielding practice.

The club has been promised uniforms by April 18, a few days late for its opening pre-season game with the Newton Centre Rangers on Sunday, April 14, at the Weeks Junior High School field.

Among those present for yesterday's workout were Fred Lane, Andover pitcher; Leo Appel, 2b; Bill Pierce, 1b; cathers, Fred Stevens and Bob Parker, and outfielders, Frank Geraci, Milton Heath, and Neil Cranston.

100 On Fairways As Trapelo Opens

Trapelo Golf Club opened officially Saturday and close to 100 club-swingers traversed the windy Kendal Green fairways.

The Sunday turnout was very favorable with about 20 members and 35 guests playing. Weekend tournament play is expected to begin next weekend.

Jones Postpones Selection Of Newton High Varsity

Rickshaw Golf

Mrs. Eddie O'Connor was told by her golf pro that relaxing is the secret of success in golf. So between strokes the pretty matron enjoys the luxury of a pneumatic-tired ride from tee to green. "Golf doesn't tire me at all," she says.

Upper Falls Baseball Club Has Workout

The Upper Falls baseball team conducted its third practice session of the season yesterday at the Newton Upper Falls playground with 25 candidates present.

The club is planning another whist party at the Forester's Hall in Upper Falls Thursday night to benefit its fund for equipment. It was announced by John F. Shaughnessy, who will manage the club in place of last year's mentor, Eddie Foley.

Included in yesterday's lineup were Jim DiMichaels, p; Foley, 1b; Bill Hurley, cf; Phil Sylkonis, c; Joe Daley, cf; Marty Daley, c; Norman Anderson, 2b; Ernest Doyle, cf; and Tom Duane, ss.

Dream Come True

The Yankees' three-week junket to Panama was such a financial and artistic success that it still remains the principal topic of conversation as the club works north. It was particularly gratifying to those athletes who not long since were enlisted men in the armed forces.

"It was like a dream come true to have all that Army brass in the Canal Zone make a fuss over me," says one veteran. "A while before I was an ordinary dogface, and there I was riding around in a general's car, eating at officers' mess, and—get this—even giving them my autograph."

Janse's Club Out As League Entry

John Janse, manager of the Newton City Club, has announced that his team will, in all likelihood, withdraw its application for entrance into the Newton-Waltham Twilight League.

Janse, faced with a shortage of equipment, uniforms and players, has indicated he will join forces with Eddie Veducic's team, with whom he played last year.

North Junior High Court Squad Named

The North Junior High annual all-star squads chosen from the Junior and Senior Divisions of the intra-mural basketball league were announced today by Frank Collins and Walter Brinn, physical directors at North Junior.

The all-star squads will prepare for the crucial championship game with the South Junior High all-stars, Friday, April 12, at the Waltham High gym. The boys will have an opportunity to practice under the supervision of Art Quinn.

SENIOR ALL-STARS

JUNIOR ALL-STARS

Edison And Jones Track Standouts

Two Newton men were among the consistent point winners on the Massachusetts State College's first winter track team since 1943 which wound up its season's activities last week losing a triangular meet with Wesleyan and Connecticut.

Unable to form a well-balanced unit, the Mass. State team was forced to rely on individual stars for the most part.

Bob Edison, high jumper, and Ken Jones, half-miler, were the two Newton men listed in the point scoring department for the season.

Jeff Names Dozen, 8 More Will Get Suits Wednesday

Cousins, Keefe Only Pitchers Picked Thus Far

The Newton High School baseball coach, Jeff Jones, labored long and diligently over the weekend in an effort to choose a varsity squad of 20 men out of the 50 hard-working candidates fighting for positions, but was able to decide on only a nucleus of his team, postponing until Wednesday his decision to cut the squad.

An even dozen aspirants got the nod from the Orange and Black mentor to don varsity suits in today's practice with eight more uniforms in the offing for those players who prove to Coach Jones in the practice games today and tomorrow that they have first-string ability.

The Garden City coach had full intentions of making the final cut in the squad over the weekend, but after balancing the results of last week's intra-squad games, he felt that it would not be fair to make the slice without giving the "doubtfuls" at least two more opportunities to prove themselves.

The 12 men who are assured of suits today included one catcher, two pitchers, five infielders and four outfielders.

Art "Whitie" Weinstock, holdover from the State championship team of two years ago, was listed by Jeff for duties behind the plate. The two hurlers picked, both righthanders, were John Cousins and Jim Keefe. The infield consisted of Ed Collins on first, the keystone combination of George Patterson and Bob Scanlon, and George Wales on the hot corner. Gordon Carlisle got the nod as utility infielder.

In the race for garden chores, Looth Cayzaglian was the only one listed for a definite position, left field, while Travis Nutting, Henry Fitzpatrick, and John Connelly rounded out the Newton varsity's nucleus.

Jeff spent two hours working over his pitching candidates Saturday morning, but Cousins and Keefe were the only two able to impress him. Twelve hurlers were on hand for the session and the boss man used a unique method of judging their performance.

Each of the hopefuls warmed up with Weinstock and then, when they felt they were ready, the veteran coach donned the catcher's mitt himself while the hurlers burned them in. Then, Jeff grabbed a club and took five swings at each pitcher's offerings with Dick Cain doing the receiving.

In today's session, the uniform-clad candidates will confine their activities to batting practice while Coach Jones looks over the rest of the "possibilities" in a practice game. Only one game will be played both today and tomorrow instead of the usual three-game schedule the Newton coach employed last week.

West Newton To Be Known As 'Colonels'

The West Newton A.C. has changed its name to the Colonels, according to word received from Acting Manager Jim Keefe, as the original name had too many letters to be placed on the fronts of the club's uniforms.

The team held its first workout of the season yesterday afternoon at the West Newton Common but, inasmuch as several of the candidates are also seeking varsity berths at Newton High School, will be unable to do much until school gets out.

Ken Jackson, Bob Todd and Keefe are listed as hurlers on the team, with Chuck Weadon and Dick Goodale as receivers. Bob Spillane will play first and John Chase and Bill Buschen will form the keystone. The hot corner will be handled by Phil Jepson and Bob Keefe will act as utility. Outfielders include Bill Mingace, Ed Bengston, Bud and Jack Purcell, Eddie Koehler, and Jim Walsh.

Keefe, listed as a varsity pitcher for the high school, will turn over the managerial reins to Bud Purcell.

THE SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

Within a few miles of each other here in the Grapefruit League, ball players are plucking evening what appeared to be insurmountable handicaps. They are the cases of the dropped feet. The athletes are William Edward Robinson of the Indians and John Grodzicki of the Cardinals. Eddie Robinson's world tumbled about his shoulders a year ago, when, while in the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital he read a story in the sports pages of a Washington newspaper which said that he would never play again.

Robinson was purchased by the Cleveland club from Baltimore in 1942 following a season in which the six-foot two-and-a-half inch, 205-pound Texan of Scotch-Irish descent was rated one of the finest young first basing prospects to come up in years.

Robby played 142 games with the Orioles, made 161 hits good for 277 bases, his home run total being 27 and his runs batted in aggregate 104, second highest in the International. His batting average was .306. With the Tribe he hit more than .300 in 20-odd games, looked great.

It was in the Navy that a bone tumor developed in his right leg, the one on which a left-hand hitter strides. In the operation to remove it, a nerve was severed.

Robinson reported at Clearwater with a brace and a spring on his shoe to hold up the foot. Surgeons advised him that the nerve would grow an inch a month, and it has been nine months since he went under the knife.

Robinson has come on so rapidly in workouts and exhibition games that the injury now is barely noticeable when he takes his robust cut at the plate, and inasmuch as he is smacking the sphere out of lots that obviously is no drawback.

Robinson, a stickout thus far in the Cleveland party, is superior to Lee Fleming in the field and a much more formidable swatter than Mickey Rocco, easily could be the Redskins' first baseman.

Johnny Grodzicki stirred things up as a St. Louis recruit at St. Petersburg's Waterfront Park in the spring of 1941, beating the Yankees, among other things. Because the Red Birds had a plethora of competent pitchers, young Grodzicki was sent to Columbus of the American Association for more seasoning. The six-foot one-inch, 180-pound right-hander from the Pennsylvania coal belt obtained it winning 19 while losing only 5.

As long as he was going to war, young Grodzicki was going first class, so he joined the paratroopers.

When Grodzicki hopped across the Rhine with the 17th Airborne Division, March 24, 1945, he was hit in the back of the right thigh by shrapnel that injured the sciatic nerve, causing him to lose control of the motion of his foot and toes.

Grodzicki wears an iron brace on the leg, the shrunken calf of which has grown an inch. He pitches in batting practice, probably could take his turn right now were he able to field.

Purple Drills At Belmont

Coach Cote Gives Demonstration At Sliding Pit

With Coach Pete Cote personally demonstrating the proper method of sliding, St. Mary's High baseballers concluded an entire week of practice preparations yesterday afternoon with a brief workout yesterday afternoon at the Belmont High School Field.

The Purple coach had his entire varsity squad on hand and spent an hour at the Belmont High pit to instruct the boys on sliding. He followed that up with a snappy infield workout, which was cut short because of the cold winds.

The St. Mary's first-team lineup appears to be taking shape with a big question mark on the starting third base nomination. Frank Bourque, All-Catholic hockey player, is battling it out with a freshman, Johnny Whitney, for the berth.

Cote hasn't anything to worry about at the other infield positions with such regulars as Frank Young, Jack McKearin, and Dick Rosse available for service. The outfield is pretty well taken care of, too, with Tom Keefe, Kevin Davis, and Johnny Butler, southpaw pitching ace, to provide a nucleus. Butler will patrol the pastures when he isn't on the mound. Davis has improved quite a bit since last year and may be a fine asset to the club.

Highlight of the Saturday practice at Bicycle Park was an intra-squad game among the freshmen. Vincent Pavone, a member of the jayvee basketball team, shared the pitching assignments for Team A, which won, 12 to 2, with Daniel Callanan and both boys did very well. John Capalucci handled their slants and showed a lot of hustle behind the plate.

Cote is trying to arrange a practice game with the Alumni for next Saturday and intends to keep the boys right on their toes all next week with a daily intra-squad skirmishes.

Newton Women Win National Table Tennis Doubles Crown

Mae Clouther and Mildred Skahan, members of the Colonial Table Tennis Club in Newton, captured the national women's doubles championship over the week-end by defeating Thelma and Leah Tall, Columbus, O., twin sisters, in a hard fought match at the St. Nicholas Arena in New York.

Mrs. Clouther and Douglas Cleland reached the semi-finals of the national mixed doubles match, while Miss Skahan came as far as the quarter finals of the women's singles, losing to Leah Tall.

Other members of the Newton Club entered in the U. S. table tennis championships here Les Lowry of Newton, who was knocked out in third round by Ed Pinner of New York in the men's singles; Frank Dwelly, beaten in the same round by Dick Miles who went on to win the event, and William Dwyer, beaten in an earlier round.

20 Nichols Ball Tossers Hold Practice

Twenty candidates for the Nichols Machine baseball team, an entry in the Waltham-Newton Twilight League, braved chilly March winds that blew off the Charles River yesterday afternoon and participated in a practice workout at McKenna Field.

Manager Dave Delorey had a promising group on hand with such standouts as Fred (Buster) Cogeen, Fred Martowski, Eddie Rubien, Sam Lupo, Hector Rousseau, Eddie Read, Wally Koscheen, Guido Castoldi, Eddie Aucoin, Eddie Joyal, Hap Byrd, Paul McCue, Jabber Jackowitz, Woody Woodlock, Bert Marrazzo, and Tom (Bunny) Dugan.

The team went through several rounds of infield drill and finished off with a long batting practice. Joyal, Woodlock, and Jackowitz took turns tossing them up.

Braves Offer Challenge To Southworth

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 1—The Braves are improved but offer a real challenge to Billy Southworth, the man whom pennants follow like a faithful hound. Billy the Kid has played with and managed his full share of winners. He helped John McGraw and the Giants to the top in 1924, Rogers Hornsby and the Cardinals to St. Louis' first National League flag in '26. As a player-manager, he copped four straight in Rochester.

Yet Southworth has had his ups and downs. Staging a comeback as the $300-a-month outfielding manager of Asheville, he won the Piedmont League banner in 1931, and finally there were his three straight with the Cardinals.

Southworth does it with a card index system, no time wasted in training or practice and by having the game played from the ground up. Baseball is all there is on his mind in every waking hour, and he dreams of it at night.

Southworth's contract with the Boston Nationals is so scaled that he would collect $100,000 if the Braves pulled another miracle and came down in front.

Personable Billy is on the driving side, yet owner Sam Breadon of the Cardinals calls him the best liked manager he ever knew.

Bob Brady, a good catcher recalled from Indianapolis by the Braves, is handicapped by being deaf in one ear. He doesn't hear everything he should.

Being slightly hard of hearing would be an advantage to some players, who should plug their ears in lieu of it. The Marines seem to have cured Ted Williams of his tantrums, which is well, for the Red Sox slugger paid altogether too much attention to what was shouted at him from the bleachers and stands.

A notable case of rabbit ears was that of Duster Mails. That was the only failing of Cleveland's World Series winner of 1920. No rail was required to ride him out of the American League.

Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phillies, works only for multi-millionaires—Col. Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees, Thomas Austin Yawkey of the Red Sox and now young Bob Carpenter of the duPont fortune.

Nate Alexander of the Phillies is exceptionally solicitous about his superiors. A baseball writer asked for an appointment with owner Carpenter.

"His wife is ill, so he doesn't want to talk today," replied Road Secretary Alexander.

Another scribe sought the whereabouts of Manager Ben Chapman.

"Treat him nicely," suggested Alexander.

"Okeh," came back the scrivener, "I'll buy him a couple of ball players."

Breaks even up in baseball. The Red Sox were perhaps the hardest hit by the war with 32 being c[alled] by the armed forces. All but [one] of the Sarasota camp [of] the Boston Americans were fi[rst] to sign every member of the [team].

Freddie [Hag]emah, the big left-hander [who] pitched for the Athletics, [Cubs] and Dodgers, is a policeman. His last trip to [Flor]ida was during camp with the Brooklyns, [when] Leo brought him to Miami Beach [in] 1943, and he stayed on. For [seven] real years is a traffic cop, he [rides] a white horse.

Legion Visits Boys' State Camp's Site

AMHERST, April 1—Plans for the third annual Massachusetts Boys' State at Massachusetts State College, sponsored by the department of Massachusetts of the American Legion, got under way yesterday with a visit to the campus by the Legion committee headed by John P. Murray of Chelsea, vice-commander of the American Legion and chairman of the Boys' State committee.

The group met with the MSC faculty committee of arrangements headed by Rollin H. Barrett, professor of farm management, including Dr. Hugh P. Baker, president; Treasurer Robert D. Hawley, Secretary James A. Gore, Professors Curry S. Hicks, Harold M. Gore, and Lewell F. Derby, of the physical education department; and John J. Broadfoot, assistant treasurer.

Boys' State at MSC will be held from June 23 to July 2 and some 750 boys, mostly high school juniors, are expected to participate under the sponsorship of local posts of the American Legion and various other civic organizations.

The boys will live in college dormitories and eat in the college dining hall. They will be under the supervision of some 50 counselors and a varied program of sports and self government has been planned. The speakers will be members of the state, federal and city governments and the state and federal governments including executive, legislative and judicial officers elected by themselves.

4-Hour Drill For Lakeview Ball Squad

Brisk winds that swept across Lowell Field yesterday afternoon failed to discourage ambitious Lakeview Athletic Club baseballers and they took part in a workout that lasted fully four hours.

There were about 25 members of the squad on hand and they participated in a batting session and infield drill. Manager Ed (Soldier) Keane tried several of the leading candidates out at different positions to outline a first team.

Among those receiving top consideration thus far is Joe Hingston as catcher, Fran Anderson and Joe Barnes as pitchers, Frank Quirk, Joe Rhodes, Bob O'Reilly, Paul May, Al McGarvey, John Callahan, and Buster Noke as infielders. Outfielders are Al Hayes, Bill Gibbs, Russ Steinhour, Joe Petrowski, and Tom Callahan.

PEOPLE of MASSACHUSETTS Here Is YOUR UNION

MASSACHUSETTS CITIZENS UNION

79 Milk St., Boston 9, HANcock 7438

"For Labor — For Industry — For America"!

A Non-Partisan Organization

CHARLES L. GIBSON, PRESIDENT

WHAT IS IT? Just what its name implies, a voluntary association of citizens who have joined forces to create and preserve more harmonious relations between Labor and Industry.

WHO ARE MEMBERS? Members include workers who pay dues to Labor Unions and people from all walks of business and professional life.

WHY ARE THEY ORGANIZING?

(1) UNION LEADERS in Massachusetts are ACCOUNTABLE TO NO ONE for, and have the UNRESTRICTED USE of, One Million Dollars per month—money that can be used without regard to the wishes of the 504,000 men and women in the State who pay Union dues. Some unions account to their members; most do not!

(2) They believe that the worker who pays dues to a Labor Union has a right to know HOW MUCH COMES IN and WHERE IT GOES.

(3) They believe that UNION FUNDS should be spent for UNION BUSINESS and NOT for POLITICAL PURPOSES.

WHAT DO THEY HOPE TO ACCOMPLISH?
Improvement of relations between Labor, Management and the Public. To that end, the job right now is: Passage by the current legislature of two laws:

(1) AN ACT TO PROVIDE THAT LABOR UNIONS SHALL FILE CERTAIN STATEMENTS AND REPORTS WITH THE COMMISSIONER OF LABOR AND INDUSTRIES. (Statement of all revenue and expenditures.)

(2) AN ACT RELATIVE TO CONTRIBUTIONS BY LABOR UNIONS OR PERSONS ACTING IN BEHALF THEREOF FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES OR TO CAMPAIGN FUNDS. (Making such contributions unlawful.)

—or—

Acceptance by the voters of these laws on the ballots as referenda next November.

WHAT IS LABOR'S ATTITUDE? Conscientiously operated Labor Unions are in favor of this proposed legislation. Workers want an accounting. They resent being forced to support candidates and causes they might not approve.

IS THE CITIZENS UNION FOR LABOR?
Definitely! This public-spirited association's aim is to prevent ABUSE OF POWER by LABOR OFFICIALS. It advocates that Labor Unions, like corporations, be required to register under the Corrupt Practices Act.

This Non-Partisan Organization is YOUR union.

JOIN IT NOW!

Ask your State Senator and Representative to pass this CONSTRUCTIVE legislation. Help make the public aware of its vital importance.

Congregation In Farewell Tribute To Rev. C. E. Reidt

duck's back," he stated; "and they are prominent words in the Bible, appearing on almost every page of Holy Writ. By them hopes are expressed and fears conveyed, and it seems that God and man use them freely."

Three points emphasized were: The bitterest lament of God is expressed thereby, quoting Hosea 2:13, "She went after her lovers and forgot Me"; and with other quotations to illustrate the ease with which we forget the larger things in life, but retain memory of the less important happenings.

The second point, "Admonishment," with pertinent quotations from Deuteronomy and Psalms, stressed the following points: "Keep thy soul diligently lest thou forget"; "Beware lest thou forget the Lord"; "Bless the Lord, O My Soul, and forget not all His benefits."

Giving a modern interpretation to the scriptures, the speaker warned against forgetting the influence that brought us from homespun to silks, from dirt floors to Persian rugs; and from corn husk beds to inner spring mattress. His admonishment was to "Remember thy creator in the days of thy youth before the evil days come or the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them," and sag down to middle life weariness, from grubbing in the garden, while it is good for the garden, may be bad for the gardener if he is not watchful of becoming sordid and burying his spiritual aspirations, noted the speaker.

The 3rd point shows that the Bible is uniform in its assurance that God does not forget, and it strains language to the utmost to convey this assurance. Scanning the Old Testament, it was noted, is written large the warning not to forget; but even larger is written the assurance that God does not forget. Turning to the New Testament, we are reminded, exhorted, and urged to remember Jesus Christ. Throughout the Old Testament, we are admonished to remember God, the Creator, something abstract, and quite universal; while in the New Testament it is focussed and becomes a person.

Continuing, Mr. Reidt urged the value of remembering Jesus Christ as risen from the dead and of what transpired in His life and its significance and what God did for Jesus whom his contemporaries rejected, noting also that in the fight for goodness God is not an idle onlooker. "Think your way into the incidents in the lives of Peter, James, and John, and what made the differences in the characteristics of each. That God is on the side of the right, not on that of the greatest battalion, as Napoleon asserted, nor will He be on the side of the most atomic bombs. God specializes in love and unselfishness and honors those qualities, we are taught."

"That's what happened in the case of Jesus," he said, "happens in less conspicuous cases at all times, everywhere; that forces for good will eventually work to the top; that Jesus was not phantom, what happened to him in Palestine was an experience within human reach of all. A carpenter of Nazareth, he was brought up like most any child. He learned obedience from the things he suffered." In other words, Mr. Reidt said, "that the grindstone of life polished Him up rather than ground Him down, due to the inner quality of soul attained through a fellowship with God. In Him the silent forces won out. Tempted in all points, yet He was without sin."

So, my last word to you from this pulpit as your pastor is this: "Remember Jesus Christ; remember that the word of God is not fettered, even if the preacher is. The saying is sure and true: If we died with Him, we shall also live with Him; If we endure, we shall also reign with Him; If we deny Him, He also will deny us; If we are faithless, He, however, remains faithful, for He cannot deny himself."

So do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, rightly handling the word of truth."

At the conclusion of the service, the congregation individually bade farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Reidt, who are leaving this morning for their new field of duty in the Deering Community Center, N. H.

The morning service hostesses were Mrs. Earl J. Arnold, Mrs. Edward Angle, Mrs. Ramon Kelly, and Mrs. Benjamin B. Worth, Jr.

25-Year-Old Pact May Be UNO Issue

NEW YORK, April 1 (U.P.) — A treaty signed by Russia and Iran 25 years ago may be produced in "the surprise witness" role before the United Nations Security Council investigation of current difficulties between the two countries is ended. No reference was made to the Feb. 26, 1921, treaty of friendship between Iran and Russia.

In the first round of discussions climaxed by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko's boycott of two sessions in which Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala was permitted to state his country's case. Attention centered chiefly on the Soviet-British-Iranian pact of 1942 (guaranteed evacuation of all foreign troops from Iran six months after the end of the war against the Axis.)

The council was invited to examine the 2,000 word "treaty of friendship" which Russia quarters contend has a direct bearing on two important aspects of the situation:

1.) The presence of Russian troops in Iran, and (2) the sanctity of treaties.

Citizens' Union Furthers Drive

The Massachusetts Citizens' Union extended its membership drive to Waltham today in an effort to clear up evils relative to the internal management of labor unions.

Dedicated to "fostering more harmonious relations between labor and industry," the organization has its headquarters at 79 Milk street, Boston.

Higher Navy Rating Given Robert Hart

Word has been received from the U. S. Naval Air Station Kaneohe, Oahu, T. H., of the advancement of Robert J. Hart, 19½, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hart, 71 Bedford street, Waltham, to the rate of torpedoman, third class.

Torpedoman Hart has been in the Navy for three years, leaving in his junior year at Waltham High School to enlist at the age of 17. He received training as torpedoman at Newport, R. I., and then advanced training in this work at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He went out to sea about 1½ years ago, and participated in several engagements.

He has a brother, Richard Daniel Hart, 17½, who has been studying for a year at Norwich University under the First Service Command. He has completed his course, and is now coming home to be assigned to Army duty. Another brother, Pfc. James Hagg Hart, died on July 5, 1944, in the Fitzsimmon General Hospital, in Denver, Colo., as a result of a pneumonia attack. He enlisted soon after graduation from Waltham High School in 1941.

The boys' father, Joseph Hart, is a veteran of World War I, when he served in Company F with the late Mayor Arthur P. Hansen.

third of the country's food and vegetable pack was averted when AFL teamsters ended a month-long boycott of 63 northern California canneries.

Federal conciliators at Washington reported progress toward settlement of a 17-day strike at midwestern farm machinery plants of the International Harvester Co.

3. West Coast longshoremen postponed a strike scheduled for today and agreed to submit their dispute with shipping lines to a presidential fact-finding board.

The coal strike threatened an immediate slowdown in steel production. Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., the nation's largest producer, said it would be forced to bank 20 of its 32 blast furnaces in the Pittsburgh area to conserve coal.

At Gary, Ind., Carnegie-Illinois officials said they had only a 30-day coal stockpile and would have to curtail production by April 7. Other steel producers in the Chicago area said they were in similar situation.

Most industries had a supply for several weeks but hopes for an early settlement were remote and it was believed many widely diversified industries would be forced to slow down.

The strike affected bituminous mines in 26 states. It began when the UMW's contract with the mine operators expired, and following the union's traditional policy of refusing to work without a contract.

In Detroit, a walkout of more than 5,000 AFL operators on the city-owned street car and bus lines, stopped transportation for some 1,800,000 residents of the automotive center.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (U.P.) — John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers went out on strike against the soft coal industry, today, threatening an immediate slowdown in steel production and gradual paralysis of the nation's harassed reconversion program.

In Pittsburgh, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corp, the nation's largest steel producer said it would be forced to bank 20 of its 32 blast furnaces "almost immediately" to conserve fuel. It said it could continue going only two weeks at its present rate of operations.

The nation generally has coal stocks available to keep most factories running for several weeks. But prospects for settling the coal wage dispute were so dismal that most industries were certain to slow down their activities to stretch out their fuel supplies.

The strike, which affected mines in 26 states, began at midnight with the expiration of the contract between the UMW and the mine operators. The miners follow a traditional policy of "no contract, no work."

The Heart To Find

By Hazel Heidergott

It was cold outside, and Ann pulled her fur coat close about her. The sky was gray and threatening ahead. Ann hoped it would snow. A few miles farther on, her wish was granted and big lazy flakes plastered themselves against the windshield. Then it began to snow in earnest.

It was a small blizzard by the time she drove up to the house, and Colin came out looking a little anxious. "I was hoping you'd get here—I didn't want you snowbound in Seattle—with me in Port Drake."

Ann slid over so that he could get in behind the wheel to drive the car into the garage. "Don't you love it, Colin? Let's pop corn and roast apples and toast marshmallows in front of the fire tonight—"

"I believe the girl's hungry," he grinned.

Inside the house, Ann changed to warm red velvet pajamas, and went into the kitchen to start dinner, only to reveal shiveringly, "Somebody should have examined my head when I was planning his house! Why didn't anyone tell me that you need heat in a kitchen? Why did I think of a kitchen as a naturally warm and friendly place?"

Colin pulled her down beside him on the davenport. "In a little while I'll go out and bring in the ingredients, and we can have bacon, waffles and coffee—and of course your popcorn and apples and toasted marshmallows—in there."

Ann put her head on his shoulder, and said, "Darlin'?—"

The doorbell rang, and they both jumped. "Who could that be?" Colin wondered aloud, as he got up to answer it.

He opened the door, and Nina and Jock, all bundled up and covered with powdered snow, came dashing in. "Thank God for the Drakes on a night like this?" Nina said fervently. "Hi, Colin—Hi Ann!"

"Hullo—won't you come in?" Ann replied mechanically.

That, it seemed, was their intention. Also they demanded to be put up for the night. Nina had gone along with Jock when he drove up to Port Farrar, to interview a wealthy and bedridden client, and they'd gotten caught in the storm and decided it was silly to go on when they had good friends so close.

Colin explained that the temperature of their kitchen was enough to discourage Admiral Byrd, so if they were willing to eat what the Drakes intended to eat, they were more than welcome. He took Nina's fur coat, established them all comfortably around the fire, then set himself to making hot rum punch.

Colin was very competent, Ann thought dreamily, as she sat with a mug of the warming drink in hand and watched him stirring up batter, and putting strips of bacon in the waffle iron. She roused herself, presently, enough to measure the coffee and plug in the percolator.

Somehow, the evening wasn't so bad as she had expected. Maybe the rum punch helped. Ann didn't talk very much, but smoked a great many cigarets, and listened to the others, who seemed to have no difficulty carrying on a normal polite conversation. Jock seemed a little remote, thought, but Nina and Colin talked with the easy familiarity of old friends. It was midnight before she knew it, and Ann roused herself to be an excellent imitation of Connie as the competent hostess. She showed them to the bedroom, and got out pajamas for Jock and a night-gown and robe for Nina.

"It's a case of striking a happy medium," she laughed. "My things will be as much too big for Nina as Colin's things will be too small for Jock."

She returned to the living room, and found Colin making up the studio couches in the alcove into beds. "Maybe we should have a bigger house, Ann," Colin said.

"Who wants guests?" Ann replied ungraciously.

"Feel that way about it?"

"Definitely."

Later, when they were in bed, Ann put her hands up over her head, and clutched a lock of Colin's hair. "Colin—" she said softly.

"Um huh?" He reached up and held both her hands.

I have something to say to you, and I can't shout it—" She moved over against the wall and made room for him beside her. Then with his arms around her, she merely sighed a little, and presently murmured, "Love me?"

"My dear—" Colin's voice was deep with emotion.

"Then"—she hesitated again, then came out with it all at once —"Colin, let's have a baby."

"I'm sorry I've begun to bore you so soon," Colin said rather stiffly.

Ann silently cursed Colin's infallible memory, and her own heady assurance of a time so far back. "Damn and blast," she said heatedly, if inaudibly.

"I rather though you might like to have a child, Colin," Ann said a little wistfully.

"I don't want anything for you that you don't want for yourself, Ann," Colin pointed out. "You need feel under no obligation to provide me with a child, just because I might like to have one. You don't owe me anything, you know—"

"This is a nice emotional discussion, isn't it?" Ann said thoughtfully. "Damn it, Colin—didn't it ever occur to you that I might want to have a baby—your baby, Colin?"

Colin laughed softly, and his arms tightened convulsively. "It didn't Ann—it didn't. But it's very nice to know!"

Boys' Club Week Is Opened With Tribute From President

President Harry S. Truman stopped long enough today in his handling of national affairs to pay a tribute to the Boys' Clubs of America in behalf of the opening of National Boys' Club Week.

In a message to William Edwin Hall, president of the national organization, President Truman said:

"It gives me pleasure to extend greetings upon this occasion to all of the members of your clubs, their leaders and supporters, and to congratulate you upon the helpful record of service of this organization in its character-building program."

The President then went on to laud the Boys' Clubs of America for the splendid job they are doing in building boys into leaders of tomorrow. His letter continued:

"Today, more than ever, we are faced with the need for programs of constructive activities and leadership for boys which will serve as an antidote to the conditions productive of juvenile delinquency. The Boys' Clubs of America help immensely in providing wholesome activities for boys, activities which help to build strength of mind and body and to instill ideals of honesty, fair play, and tolerance."

William Lacey, War Hero, Weds Marian Coons

The marriage of William Robinson Lacy, Newton war hero, to Miss Marian Manning Coons, 2750 Chesterton road, Shaker Heights, Ohio, took place Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Lacy, formerly a captain with the Anti-Aircraft Battalion, 90th Division, holds the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in Europe. He took part in five battles, including Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe. He is the son of Col. and Mrs. Clive Woodbury Lacy of 261 Nahanton street, Newton Centre.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Harold C. Philips, pastor. The bride was given in marriage by her bother, Richard Foster Coons.

John W. Lacy of Newton Centre was best man, and the maid of honor was Miss Ellen M. Coons, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Sidney B. Congdon, Jr., of Cleveland; Miss Mary S. Stauffer of York, Pa., and Miss Alice Huntington of Princeton, N. J. Ushers were Thomas B. Lacy, Newton Centre; Sidney Congdon of Cleveland, and David Huntington of Princeton, N. J. The wedding march was played by George K. Ogden.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin, and styled along princess lines. She wore a halo headdress of chantilly lace with pearl trimming, from which fell a tulle veil. Her bouquet was stephanotis and white orchid. The maid of honor wore a yellow marquisette dress with fitted basque and carried talisman roses and violets. The dresses of the bridesmaids were fashioned along the same lines as that of the maid of honor, and their bouquet were of talisman roses and daisies tied with nile green ribbon.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns, Easter lilies, and large candelabra held cathedral candles. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where the decorations were of spring flower smilax.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Manning Coons of Shaker Heights, Ohio. She was graduated from the Laurel School in Cleveland and Pine Manor College in Wellesley. She made her debut at the Cleveland 1941 Assembly Ball and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Lacy was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in February of 1943, where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi. He entered the Army immediately following his graduation from M.I.T. and received his officer training at Camp Davis, N.C. He served as platoon commander overseas and then as intelligence officer. His father, Col. Lacy, is the holder of the Legion of Merit, awarded for outstanding service as chief of the Requirements Division of the Chemical Warfare Service in Washington, D. C.

After a wedding trip in the South, the couple will reside in Boston, where they will be at home after April 15.
